

Forest Analyst

EDMONTON, AB / REMOTE

Come Grow with Us! Forsite is actively looking for a Forest Analyst with a detailed understanding of forestry practices and the ability to use analytical tools to support forest management decisions. This position can be remote or ideally based out of our Edmonton, AB office.

Edmonton is the fifth largest city in Canada, the capital of Alberta and one of the youngest, fastest-growing cities in the country. Edmonton is known for more than a mall...hosting year-round festivals, sporting events, the beautiful North Saskatchewan River valley, lots of daylight during the summer, 60+ non-stop flights to national, US and international destinations, and even though the winters can be cold, it provides another season to enjoy what the city has to offer.

What will you do?

As the Forest Analyst you will be involved in a variety of projects types across Alberta and western Canada, such as:

- Forest Management Planning
- Timber Supply Analysis
- Inventory Projections
- Cumulative Effects Analysis
- Carbon Reporting
- Economic Viability & Operability
- Growth & Yield Analysis
- and much more!

With 180 employees positioned coast to coast, people are our business. Forsite is looking for applicants who are interested in pursuing and growing a career in Forest Analytics as we continue to grow our business across Alberta and Canada.

Do you think strategically? Do you like solving problems using forestry models and large datasets? Do you enjoy interacting with clients to understand their forest management objectives?

The ideal candidate will have a post-secondary education with a degree or diploma in a relevant discipline, minimum three years of related experience (ideally forestry analytics), proficient in forest estate modeling, GIS, statistics, databases, programming and data manipulation. Registered or eligible to be registered with the Alberta Association of Forest Management Professionals (AAFMP) as a Registered Professional Forester (RPF) is an asset.
