future

The Ministry of Environment takes a team-based approach to protect Saskatchewan's environment for the wellbeing of the province, its people and its future. We use science-based solutions and environmental laws to help safeguard communities, protect our air, land, water and habitat.

Are you a proactive, details-focused, GIS professional with the ability to work successfully in a team environment? Do you have a desire to foster a positive health and safety culture and increase your technical knowledge related to forestry? The Saskatchewan Ministry of Environment has an exciting GIS Analyst opportunity in the Forest Service Branch located in Prince Albert.

The GIS Analyst will contribute to the development of data standards and data management protocols for the Forest Service, liaise with a wide variety of internal and external clients to facilitate timely and efficient data receipt, assess and manage large and comprehensive data sets, and provide technical support for field survey equipment including GPS units, data recorders, tablets and their associated applications.

A strong understanding of, and experience working with, Geographic Information Systems supporting the management of renewable resources is required. Experience working with an enterprise database and editing in a versioned environment is an asset. You must be able to communicate complex technical topics to non-technical staff and clients.

Typically, the knowledge required for this position would be acquired through a technical diploma or undergraduate degree in natural resource sciences, supplemented by a diploma or an equivalent combination of training and experience in Geographic Information Systems. Typically, candidates possess at least six months of work experience in which forestry data was collected or managed.
